Track Conversions, Highlight the Visitors who have triggered a Conversion

You can set pages (URLs) where the visit is automatically recorded as a conversion. For example, this can be a page that is displayed after a successful order.

You can then filter by the visitors who have triggered conversions and thus identify pages of particular importance to your paying customers and to track the success of your advertising campaigns.

Notes Add Notes to Visitors

You can add notes to visitors automatically via the API or manually in the interface.

This allows you, for example, to add notes about visitors who placed an order in the store, contacted you or performed some other action. This also allows you to determine which advertising campaigns generated the most sales.

Parameters The Software tracks the Calls of the relevant Parameters

Some parameters you use on a website are relevant, others are not. In the page management you can define which parameters should be tracked and which not. Irrelevant parameters like session IDs are filtered so that you have clean records.

They are the annoying bouncers in front of every website: Cookie banners inform visitors which data the website operators want to collect. Hardly any website can be accessed today without such a pop-up popping up first.

By way of explanation, what are cookies anyway?

Cookies are small data sets that are stored when you visit a website with your device. In principle, one can differentiate between two types: Necessary cookies, which help a website to function, and optional cookies, which have other purposes.

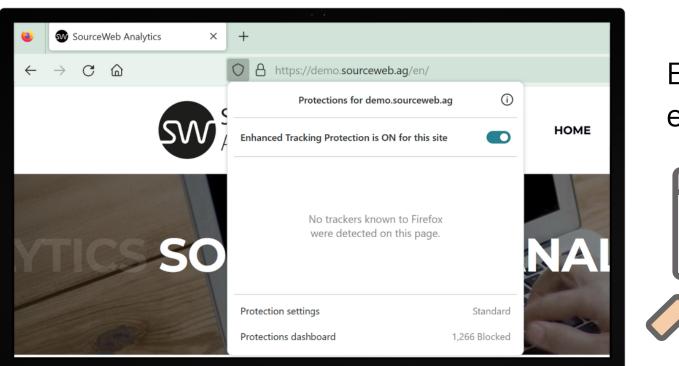

Necessary cookies take care, for example, that the login works as desired or that a shopping cart is displayed properly.

Technically unnecessary cookies, on the other hand, can, among other things, analyze the surfing behavior of users and subsequently be sold to a large number of third-party companies.

For this reason, most visitors decide to reject your required cookie message and from this, website operators lose very valuable data to evaluate their visitors. For most websites the provider e.g. Advance-Metrics.com observes an acceptance rate of 11%, this of course would be very fatal for the website operator. *Reference: https://www.advance-metrics.com/en/blog/76-ignore-cookie-banners-the-user-behavior-after-30-days-of-gdpr/

We have the solution. Due to our pseudonymization procedure, we do not require cookies and therefore you do not have to display a cookie message on your website in the EU. Nevertheless, we offer you a more detailed, cross-page visitor analysis and we are 100% privacy compliant. In addition, we rely on an in-house artificial intelligence, which brings many unique advantages, compared to other analytics providers.

Even the browsers do not recognize activity tracking scripts, even though we have built our Analytics Software into the source code.

Our analytics software does not use cookies to track visitors. Instead, we use an AI that calculates whether it is the same visitor or a different visitor based on a variety of criteria with diverse models.

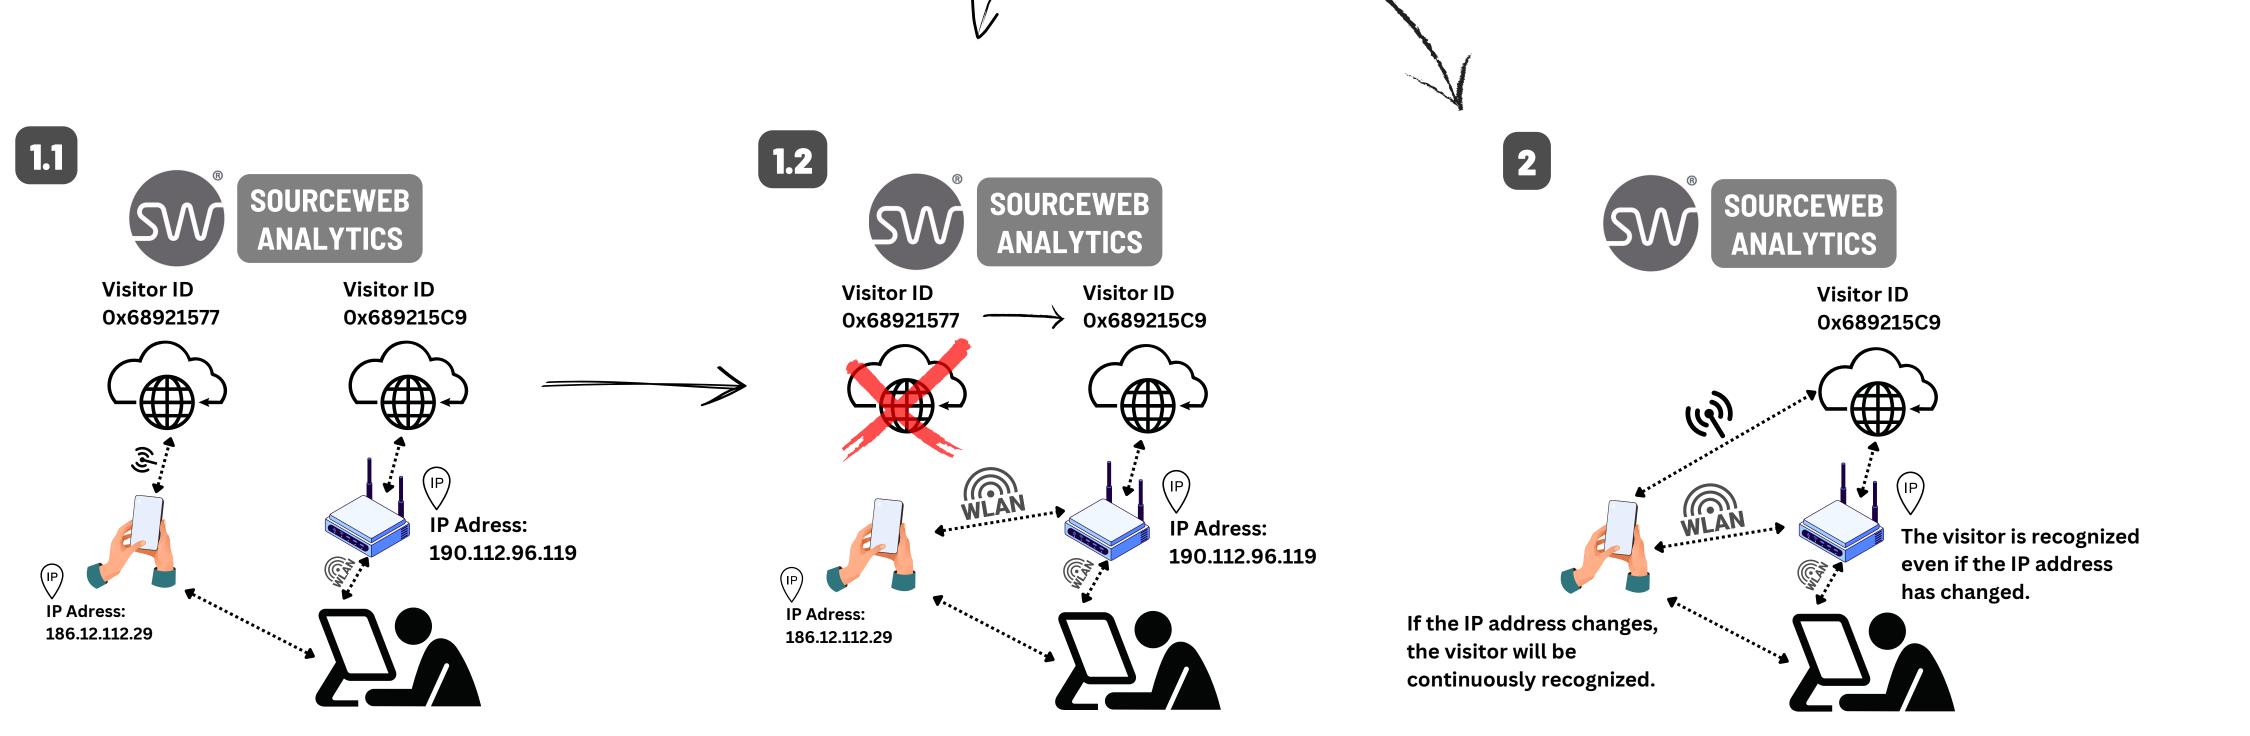

Since cookies are only stored in the respective browser and we do not use such technologies, we can identify a visitor even if they change browsers or even devices in between.

Thus, we recognize very reliably if one and the same visitor visits your websites sometimes with the smartphone, sometimes with the laptop in the hotel and sometimes with the PC from home.

Even if a visitor should initially be recognized as two unique visitors due to a lack of matching criteria, these visitors are subsequently combined into one visitor and the data in the statistics is corrected accordingly.

In addition, since we do not use cookies, you no longer need to display a disturbing cookie message on your website and the recording is always correct, even if your visitors are using programs to prevent from activity tracking.

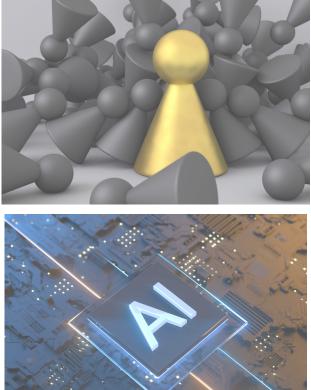

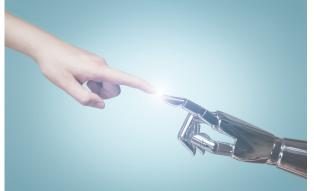

There are a variety of ways in which visitors can be recognized by our AI. Even with different devices, the visitors are recognized if both devices are connected to the same wifi every now and again.

Since we do not use cookies, but an AI for visitor identification, it is also not important whether the visitors surf with the same browser or switch browsers in between. Even with changing browsers, the visitors are reliably recognized.

Even changing IP addresses are no problem. If a visitor has appeared under different IP addresses, you will find a list of all IP addresses in the visitor details.
